

India Apostolic Mission 2015

Miriam Hellman led an apostolic mission to India in November 2015. Miriam's ministry in Trichy was a webinar broadcast followed by many across the country. James and Sabrina led a team of three in ministering to Christian pastors and their congregations in the area near Trichy, in the South of India. Ismael and Sharon Otero also led a team of three to minister to other pastors on the area.

Pastors David and Elsie Daniels, our host pastors and James ministering in a service at Pastor Daniels' church. Very few people spoke English.

Our ministry team: Betty and Emerson George on the left and Jan Mosley on the right. Our team facilitated prayer and ministry and flowed in complete unity.

Sabrina's Ministry

Sabrina was given a message by the Holy Spirit a few weeks before we traveled to India. The message was a teaching on the operations of faith and the example given to her to use was to explain the correct operation of faith by explaining how people prepare a cup of tea. It's a great message and if you ask her when you see her, she'd love to share the message with you. She ministered this message at a local Sunday morning service in Little Rock and many were blessed. Our first night of ministry in India was a little uncertain. We were not sure of our audience but Sabrina felt led that she was to minister. We arrived to find an audience of mostly very young children and some young adults.

We had been in India a few days by now and realized the British influence of drinking tea was everywhere we went. Pastors were served tea at tea time even if they were on the pulpit ministering when tea time arrived! Everyone drank tea, adults and children alike. When we arrived at the first church to find a room of mostly children Sabrina began by asking the question, "How many of you drink tea"? Every hand in the room shot up!

She delivered a profound message about the operation of faith – the understanding of how faith works using a simple example of how to make a cup of tea – a message the Lord had given her weeks before we arrived. Everyone in the meeting had complete understanding of how faith works because they all understood how to make tea. The message crossed cultural, age, and language barriers! The children were so excited!! After the meeting, when tea was served, the children excitedly pointed to their cups of tea with new insight and enlightenment. Glory to God!

James' Ministry

James was impressed to minister at the Sunday meeting about the necessity to believe God and how the Lord considered it an act of righteousness when we believe Him. This was a strategic message to a people group who came into Christianity from a belief in gods who are not the Living God and King, Our Father. James' message was challenging and placed a demand on the belief of those present to make a decision to believe that The Father is God and requires that we believe Him to see the fullness of His promises unfold in our lives. Many were blessed and came up for prayer after the meeting. One of the young men who translated for our teams was sure that God was speaking to him and that message was for him about his call to ministry.

Emerson's Ministry

Emerson ministered a message of faith by giving many testimonies from his own life about how the Lord Jesus has always been there for him and provided for him and even saved Him from certain death. The crowd was stirred by Emerson's message which was full of excitement and energy that God the Father loves us all and His Son Jesus is always there for us and we are safe with Jesus and we are saved by Jesus. He imparted faith, hope, and love! People were encouraged and blessed.
